

MOVIE REVIEW: Flight of the Living Dead (2007)

- GENRE: Zombie Horror
- ACTORS: David Chisum, Sarah Laine, Richard Tyson, Erick Avari, Derek Webster, Kristen Kerr, Kevin J. O'Connor, Laura Cayouette, Dale Midkiff

- RATING: NR (but I would guess it would be an “R” or higher if it had been rated)
- PARENTAL NOTE: Not intended for children. Bad language and questionable situations. Violence. Zombie mayhem and gore.
- INTENDED AUDIENCE: This movie is intended for fans of the genre, and may not be appreciated by others.
- GENERAL PLOT: (No spoilers) Zombies get loose on a plane, and things go from bad to worse.
- REVIEW: This is not your typical zombie B-Movie. I don't know the budget, but this flick has the look and feel of a major motion picture. This movie is basically snakes on a plane—but substitute zombies for snakes. Major zombie mayhem and gore. The acting is OK, but not much is required (say a few words, scream, get bit by a zombie, turn into a zombie, and bite someone else). The zombies look good. Good action. The plot is original, though not much is required in a zombie movie. Sure, you have to ignore some plot devices that cross the line into just plain asinine—exploding devices on board an airplane, and the whole ending of the movie, for example. Still, I've seen lots of zombie movies—the good, the bad, and the awful. Flight of the Living Dead is definitely one of the best the genre has to offer

- RECOMMENDATION:[2. If you wonder why zombie themes and horror films have space on a Christian website like K_Line Christian Online, please see my blog post on point] This is a zombie horror movie. Many people will be highly offended by every movie in this genre because of the graphic violence, gore, language and other questionable elements. However, if you are a fan of this genre—this movie is highly recommended!
