

Poll: Reading Preferences

The new poll is online now.

Besides the Bible, there are lots of potential candidates for favorite books. The Pickwick Papers, Slaughterhouse Five and 1984 come to mind. I've heard the argument that Catcher in the Rye is the best ever—though personally, I don't see it.

OK, the choices aren't so much actual titles as themes. Email me the title of your favorite book, and I'll publish some of the most often mentioned.

Complete this sentence: "The last good book I read was..."

- "...Linux for Dummies." (58%, 7 Votes)
- "...I spend too much time on web sites like this to have time for reading books. (25%, 3 Votes)
- "...actually a magazine at the barber shop. (8%, 1 Votes)
- "... (other / not listed) (8%, 1 Votes)
- "... so long ago I forgot the title. (0%, 0 Votes)
- "--actually reading a good book some day is one of my goals. (0%, 0 Votes)

Total Voters: 12
